Recognition of the contributions of Dr Amitha Bachan KH and Devika M Anilkumar to the Global Tree Assessment

12 August 2023

It is my pleasure to recognise the contributions of Dr Amitha Bachan KH and Devika M Anilkumar to the Global Tree Assessment. The Global Tree Assessment is an initiative to assess the world's tree species for the IUCN Red List. The initiative is coordinated by Botanic Gardens Conservation International (BGCI) and the IUCN Species Survival Commission Global Tree Specialist Group (IUCN-SSC GTSG).

Dr Amitha Bachan and Devika have made a valuable contribution to the Global Tree Assessment by assessing important species of the Western Ghats. Our collaboration began on 11-10-2021 with 57 species assigned to Dr Amitha Bachan and Devika. Thus far, 10 of these assessments have been published on the IUCN Red List, 13 scheduled to be published, and 8 assessed and submitted awaiting review. Dr Amitha Bachan and Devika have also reviewed many other tree assessments that have been assessed for the Global Tree Assessment.

During this work, Dr Amitha Bachan and Devika have utilised the IUCN Species Information Service (SIS) database to input their assessments. They have collected detailed information on each species including creating a distribution map to IUCN standards. They have then applied the IUCN Red List Categories and Criteria to produce assessments of a high standard.

It has been a pleasure to work with Dr Amitha Bachan and Devika

Yours sincerely,

Ryan Hills
