The Second-Year students of B.Sc. Aquaculture at M E S Asmabi College organized an Ifthar Meet on 26th March 2025 at the residence of Thasneema A A, one of the students. The event, which commenced at 6:30 AM and concluded at 8:30 PM, was a well-planned and enthusiastic gathering that brought together faculty members, students, and their families to celebrate the spirit of Ramadan in an atmosphere of unity and harmony.

Enthusiasm and Active Participation of Students

The students exhibited immense zeal and dedication in organizing the Ifthar Meet. From planning the schedule to arranging the logistics, they worked tirelessly to ensure the success of the event. The venue was beautifully decorated with lanterns and traditional Ramadan embellishments, creating a serene and festive ambiance. The students managed the arrangements meticulously, ensuring a smooth and joyful experience for all attendees.

Their enthusiasm was evident in the way they coordinated the food arrangements, seating, and overall hospitality. Special care was taken to include traditional dishes that are customarily enjoyed during Ifthar, reflecting the cultural richness of the occasion. The event also featured a special session where students shared their insights about the significance of Ramadan and the values it promotes, such as compassion, gratitude, and togetherness.

Faculty Participation and Bonding

The presence of all the faculty members of the department added to the joy of the event. Distinguished professors including Dr. Kesavan K, Dr. Dhanya P R, Dr. Sayana K A, Dr. Remisha O, and Mr. Mohammed Areej attended the meet, along with 23 students and children of faculty members. Their participation highlighted the close-knit bond between students and teachers, fostering an environment of mutual respect and camaraderie.

The interaction between faculty members and students extended beyond academic discussions, creating a sense of belonging and unity. The informal setting provided an opportunity for meaningful conversations, laughter, and shared experiences, strengthening the teacher-student relationship.

Ramadan Fest and Interfaith Harmony

A significant highlight of the event was the Ramadan Fest, which took place after the evening prayer at the mosque. This segment of the gathering emphasized the essence of sharing and togetherness, as participants from diverse backgrounds came together to celebrate the spirit of the holy month. The fest featured a variety of traditional delicacies, prepared and shared by students and faculty members, symbolizing unity and mutual respect.

The Ifthar Meet went beyond being just a social gathering; it became a platform for fostering interfaith harmony and religious inclusivity. The participation of individuals from different religious backgrounds showcased the values of respect and understanding that are integral to a pluralistic society. It was heartening to see students of various faiths coming together to embrace the traditions of Ramadan, reinforcing the idea that communal harmony is strengthened through shared experiences.

Conclusion and Appreciative Note

The Ifthar Meet organized by the Second-Year B.Sc. Aquaculture students of M E S Asmabi College was a resounding success, reflecting their commitment to inclusivity, teamwork, and cultural appreciation. Their enthusiasm in meticulously planning and executing the event was commendable, and the warmth and hospitality displayed were truly inspiring.

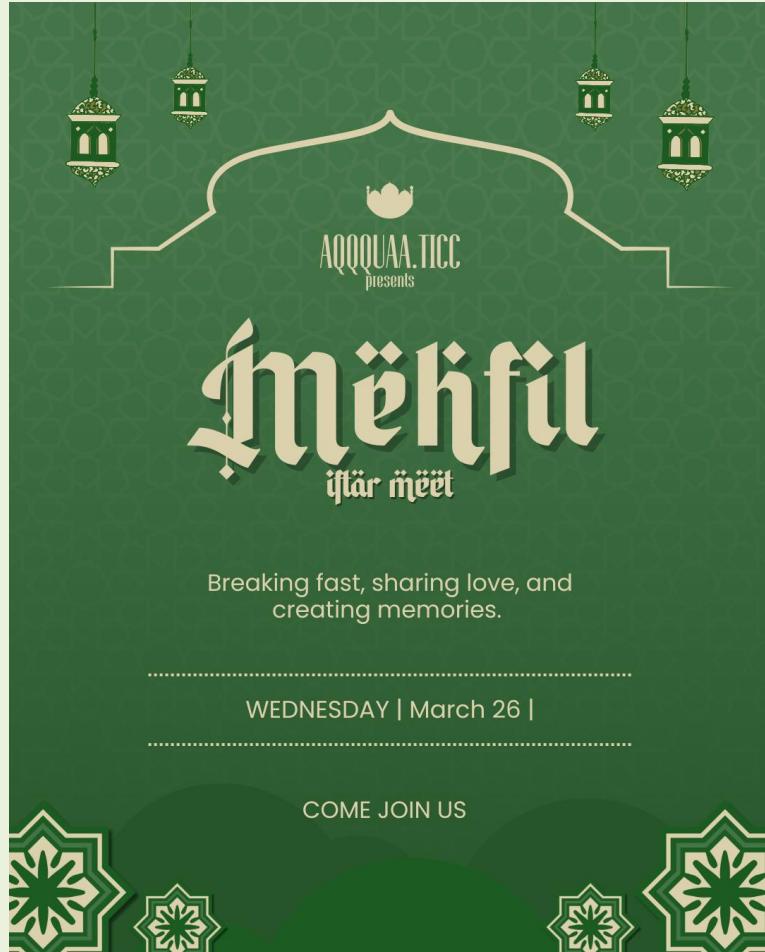

Events like these play a crucial role in nurturing unity and fostering relationships beyond religious boundaries. The Ifthar Meet was a beautiful demonstration of how traditions can bring people together, strengthening the bonds of friendship, understanding, and mutual respect. It was not just a celebration of Ramadan but also a celebration of diversity and harmony, making it a memorable and cherished experience for all who attended.
